We always adhere to the IAATO 5-meter rule regarding wildlife. However, the animals sometimes forget that rule and let their curiosity get the best of them.

If you're going to Antarctica, consider going all the way.

Thank you for looking into Polar Latitudes.

I'll start with the obvious: Antarctica is unlike any other place on earth: untouched, magical, ethereal, surreal, life-changing... choose your superlatives, as there are many, and none of them can adequately do this continent justice. And now here you are, perhaps researching a trip yourself. As you compare your many travel options, the first things you'll undoubtedly notice are the similarities. Spectacular icebergs! Mind-blowing glaciers! And those adorable penguins! So, you may start wondering if, in fact, most trips will be pretty much the same. The simple answer is yes... and no. The yes part, of course, is Antarctica — an almost unbelievable environment, regardless of how you arrive here. The "no" part — and the real difference maker — is in how you engage with and experience this incredible part of the world. In my only-slightly biased opinion, this is what sets Polar Latitudes apart.

Antarctica is the only place we've ever traveled to. And for 13 years, our focus has been on delivering the most immersive Antarctic experience, bar none. Bigger ships boasting more lavish on-board amenities are increasingly vying for your attention, but our priority remains as it always was: getting you off the ship and into the heart of Antarctica as much as possible. When traveling with us, you can expect longer excursions, led by a more experienced and knowledgeable expedition team, with a keen eye for unexpected opportunities that will make your trip unlike any that came before, or will ever come after. And for our '24 – '25 season, we've added 2 "All-Access" voyages, giving every passenger a chance to explore any or all of our off-ship activities. These include kayaking, camping, snowshoeing, and more at no additional cost. On the following pages, you'll find further details on all our trips, plus everything else you might be wondering about us.

We hope to see you on board, and more importantly, off the ship... in Antarctica!

John McKeon
President and Founding Partner, Polar Latitudes

We are all explorers

From the moment we're born, we're born to explore — endlessly amazed by the incredible world that awaits us at each and every turn. Then along comes adulthood, with all its distractions and responsibilities, slowly but surely sapping us of that most precious birthright — that desire to seek the unknown. To explore.

But that desire isn't lost. It's still waiting for you in Antarctica.

At Polar Latitudes, everything we do, we do with a spirit of exploration in our hearts, and with Antarctica front and center in our minds. When you journey with us into this wild, uninhabited place, you become more than a traveler; you become, once again, an explorer — in every sense of that word.

Our small ship experience will fully immerse you in Antarctica's ethereal landscape and mesmerizing wildlife, as so-called "civilized" life fades away, overtaken by a spirit of improvisation and boundless discovery. Our twice-daily off-ship excursions rank among the longest in Antarctic waters, and our highly skilled expedition team is unrivaled in their ability to turn suddenly uncooperative weather into a new, more exciting opportunity. An average of 12 years' Antarctic experience can do that for a person.

Back onboard our beautiful ship, the Seaventure, you'll find all the comforts you'll need to recharge, refuel your body, and prepare for the next great adventure. Guest research scientists, environmentalists, wildlife experts, and historians will further inspire you, while enriching your understanding of this mysterious and endlessly fascinating continent. A lively spirit of camaraderie and fun is always a big part of the on-ship experience.

On a Polar Latitudes voyage, we are explorers one and all. Come with us and indulge your own inner explorer, by fully immersing yourself in the last wild, unpopulated, undisturbed place on planet Earth. I promise, the experience will never leave you.

Our penguins are cuter than their penguins

That sounds ridiculous because it is. And therein lies the difficulty in deciding which Antarctica-bound travel company to trust with your bucket list holiday. Browsing through websites, the similarities are hard to miss: photos of majestic icebergs and incredible wildlife (including universally cute penguins) assurances of highly experienced onboard staff and expedition teams, first class food and accommodations and, of course, a strong emphasis on safety. But if all that is true (and for the most part it is), how does one decide? Well, here are five things that are of particular importance to us. If they're important to you too, then we'll see you on board.

1 We only travel to Antarctica. And we've been doing it for decades. It's what we love, and we don't share that love with a dozen other places around the world. When people travel with us, they feel that passion, and they benefit from our deep knowledge of a continent unlike any other.

2 We are founder owned and operated. We are not a gleam in the eye of a hedge-fund manager, and we are not part of a giant hospitality operation. We do this because we couldn't imagine doing anything else. You may even see one of our owners on board, or guiding you on your next Zodiac adventure.

3 We offer a small ship, highly-personalized experience. There's no "herding," no early and late dinner shifts, no endless waiting for your turn to board a Zodiac. On a Polar Latitudes voyage, we're all one team, and Antarctica is an intimate, personalized experience we share together.

4 You'll feel like family. We hear this all the time from departing passengers, and we love it. On board, you're not just a passenger, you're a fellow explorer. Your dinner tablemates might be expedition leaders, photography coaches, our whale-tracking partners from Woods Hole, or even our President, who still travels with us several times a year. By the end of your journey, you'll know us by name, and you may even make some new friends for life.

5 Our staff is better than just great; they're engaging. We believe our staff, top to bottom, is the most experienced, most skilled team in Antarctica. But we also hire for the things that don't appear on most resumes. A passion for exploration. A desire to be part of a team. Fun to be around. And a love for passing their love of this incredible place on to everyone around them. When an expedition team is out of sync (and it happens) it's not just bad for them, it's bad for you, too.

THE GLADDEST MOMENT IN HUMAN LIFE, IS A DEPARTURE INTO UNKNOWN LANDS.

— Sir Richard Burton

An itinerary for every explorer.

Our '24 – '25 season offers a full range of travel dates and itineraries, each designed to exceed the expectations of any would-be Antarctic explorer. While each voyage is unique, one constant remains throughout: delivering the most immersive Antarctica experience with everything we do.

Our Expedition Team and ship staff will welcome you on board and get you settled in, followed by a safety and orientation briefing and our Captain's welcome dinner. We're on our way to Antarctica!

Day 4, Southern Ocean

Things really start to ramp up with plenty of wildlife identifying to do as we make our way east across the Antarctic Convergence and officially enter Antarctic waters. Shipboard presentations continue, featuring topics such as the captivating history and abundant wildlife of South Georgia

Day 5, West Falklands/Malvinas

We'll be exploring some of the westernmost settled outposts in the Falklands/Malvinas, a remote South Atlantic archipelago renowned for its rugged terrain and cliff-lined coast. As we stretch our legs along the farmland and beaches, we'll have an opportunity to visit Albatross and penguin colonies. Look for Rockhopper, King and Magellanic penguin rookeries.

Day 6, Stanley, East Falklands/Malvinas

The archipelago's largest island, Stanley, is a lively hub of activity nestled in a sheltered harbor. Magellanic penguins, also known as Jackass penguins for the braying sound they make, breed here, nesting in underground burrows. Other native bird species include Black-Crowned Night herons, Long-Tailed meadowlarks, Two-Banded plovers, and Upland and Kelp geese. Nearby Ordinance Point is the final resting place for several World War II guns.

Day 7-8, Southern Ocean

And be on the lookout for whale blows and our very first iceberg sighting.

South Georgia is often referred to as the 'Serengeti of the Southern Ocean' and it's easy to see why as you take in tens of millions (not a typo!) of breeding penguins, seals, and seabirds. Breathtaking mountain scenery, majestically sculpted icebergs, glaciers in every direction, and a rich historical tapestry are all here to complement the incredible array of wildlife on view as we travel down South Georgia's leeward coast. Team and ship staff greet you on board, followed by a safety and orientation briefing and our lively Captain's Welcome Dinner. You're on your way to Antarctica!

Day 4-5, Drake Passage:

Join our Polar Experts to begin immersing yourself in everything Antarctica-related, from its plentiful wildlife to its mesmerizing history. Get involved in our pioneering Citizen Science program. Or sit back with a pair of binoculars and keep a sharp eye out for the majestic seabirds that follow our journey across the Antarctic Convergence and into Antarctic waters.

Day 6-7, South Shetland Islands:

As you catch your first unforgettable glimpse of an iceberg, the reality of your upcoming adventure begins to sink in. We have reached the volcanic South Shetland Islands with their amazing abundance and untouched natural beauty – on land, in the water, and in the air.

From the comfort and safety of your Zodiac, artfully dodging the early season's brash ice and "bergy bits," you begin to anticipate your first face-to-face encounter with Antarctica's majesty.

Day 8-10, Antarctic Peninsula:

As we make our way into Antarctica's ethereal landscape, you can't help but take a deep breath and imagine what the early Antarctic explorers must have felt – to be the first humans to leave a footprint in the continent's freshly fallen snow. You'll witness countless penguins coming ashore to eagerly reunite with their mates and begin building nests, while yawning Weddell seals entertain from the nearby ice.

Thanks to Seaventure's ice-strengthened hull, we'll let the spirit of exploration propel us into some of Antarctica's most remote and picturesque bays and harbors, where an opportunity to land on sea ice may present itself. Twice daily outings are always the goal, typically getting you up close and personal with Antarctica for six or more hours a day. Even when we're on the ship we remain up close and personal as we break through ice, circumnavigate icebergs, and pause for whales breaching right in front of us.

Whether you're in a kayak or a Zodiac, don't forget to look down as well as up. This time of year, the water is so clear, opportunities for wildlife sightings are literally everywhere.

Day 11-12, Drake Passage Homeward:

We leave this magical place and make our way north, once again crossing the legendary Drake Passage. We have one last hurrah as we celebrate the conclusion of our expedition with a special photography slideshow of our shared experience, and cap off the experience with a final highly festive meal together.

Day 13, Disembark in Ushuaia:

With huge smiles on weary, content faces, we disembark in the morning, where you'll likely catch a flight to Buenos Aires and onward, newly inspired and forever changed..

Day 7-9, Antarctic Circle

Heading south across the Bransfield Strait, we begin to see the breathtaking outline of the Antarctic Peninsula. Wildlife sightings, including penguins, whales, and fur seals, become more frequent, as do dramatic ice sculptures. Should Antarctica's unpredictable weather and ice permit, you will be among the lucky few to cross the Antarctic Circle, where the sun remains in the sky for 20 hours a day. Following a tradition first established by sailors crossing the equator, we'll celebrate the occasion by... (Sorry, you just have to be there), before heading onward toward any number of historic and rarely visited British Survey bases, after which we turn back north.

Day 10-12, Antarctic Peninsula

Heading north, we'll explore all the Antarctic Peninsula has to offer, including any number of spectacular bays and famed harbors, maneuvering through dramatic channels as we traverse the wildlife-rich waters, encountering a wide variety of lively penguins, seals, and whales along the rugged coastlines and in the sea. There are always great opportunities to stop at several active scientific bases and historic landing sites along the way, as we leave no opportunity unseized-upon in our quest to explore the very best of this magical place.

Day 13-14, Drake Passage

We leave this magical place and make our way north, once again heading across the Antarctic Convergence and the Drake Passage. We have one last hurrah as we celebrate the conclusion of our expedition with a special slideshow and a final meal together.

Day 15, Ushuaia Disembarkation

With huge smiles on weary, content faces, we disembark in the morning, letting you catch a flight to Buenos Aires or stay in Ushuaia for more sights and adventure.

Dec 18, 2024	Dec 20, 2025	Dec 30, 2025

Day 1, Arrive in Ushuaia

No need to stress about missed connections or flight delays as you arrive in the southernmost city in the world with an extra day to unwind and enjoy Ushuaia's finest luxury hotel, the Arakur Resort & Spa. Relax in the infinity pool, explore the hiking trails surrounding the resort, or head out and discover the southernmost city in the world.

Day 2, Explore Ushuaia

Explore the sights of Ushuaia, visit the museums and Argentinean leather markets, or continue relaxing at the hotel. Our evening briefing at the Arakur is your opportunity to ask questions and meet some of your fellow explorers.

Day 3, All Aboard Seaventure

Spend your morning exploring Ushuaia or unwinding at the resort until our mid-afternoon escort to the ship.

Our Expedition Team and ship staff will welcome you on board and get you settled in, followed by a safety and orientation briefing and our Captain's welcome dinner. We're on our way to Antarctica!

Day 4-5, Drake Passage

Join our Polar Experts as they share their vast knowledge of Antarctica, from its enchanting wildlife to its bold history. Participate in our pioneering Citizen Science program, or sit back and take in this fabled journey while catching glimpses of rarely-seen wildlife. Keep your binoculars handy to identify the many seabirds that escort our ship as we cross the Antarctic Convergence into Antarctica's waters and noticeably cooler temperatures, your cue to get ready for that first iceberg sighting, an unforgettable moment on every journey.

Day 6-7, Antarctic Sound and Weddell Sea

We maneuver through the mysterious channels and wildlife-rich waters of the Antarctic Sound and Weddell Sea, the perfect place to ensure an unforgettable holiday adventure. The Antarctic Sound is well known for its huge tabular icebergs and the Weddell Sea offers a unique geography unlike anywhere else on earth. Here we'll take in the abundant wildlife such as Adélie penguins and seals as we keep on the lookout for hunting Orca.

Day 8-9, Merry Christmas, Antarctica!

Time to put our explorer's spirit to full use. Antarctica offers astounding images and wildlife encounters at every turn, as the last truly unspoiled place on earth, populated only by its original wild inhabitants. Prepare yourself to encounter numerous species of penguins, seals, and whales, who will be there to share the holidays with us along the rugged coastlines and in the sea. We'll also take full advantage of every opportunity to visit some of the several active scientific bases and historic landing sites on the peninsula. This voyage promises to be a holiday memory you'll cherish forever. Our team always has something fun planned for Christmas Day.

Day 10, South Shetland Islands

Over time, the volcanic activity of the South Shetland Islands has created a geology unlike any other. Here, you can expect a spectacular display of mountains, glaciers, and wildlife including Chinstrap and Gentoo penguins; and it's not uncommon to share the water's edge with Elephant and Fur seals. Whales are often spotted as well. So, we'll settle into our Zodiacs and spend most of our day exploring. And kayakers, it's time to get your first taste of gliding just inches off the pristine Antarctic water. Whether on land or sea, in zodiac or kayak, be prepared for a fully immersive introduction to this incomparable part of the world.

Day 11-12, Drake Passage

We leave this magical place and make our way north, once again crossing the legendary Drake Passage. We have one last hurrah as we celebrate the conclusion of our expedition with a special slideshow and a final meal together.

Day 13, Ushuaia Disembarkation

With huge smiles on weary, content faces, we disembark in the morning, letting you catch a flight to Buenos Aires or stay in Ushuaia for more sights and adventure.

When To Visit Antarctica

Is there a bad time to visit Antarctica? Yes. In the heart of the Antarctic Winter, (June & July) temperatures are well below 0° Fahrenheit and many days have little or no sunlight. Expeditionary voyages begin in November and run through March, and each of those months have unique features in terms of both weather and wildlife activity. Love Whales? Want to see penguin chicks fledge? Below is a month-by-month description to help you find the voyage that best matches your interests.

NOVEMBER

- The penguins populations in the rookeries are swelling and the birds are busy nest-building and courting
- Extensive snow cloaks Antarctica in a 'pristine whiteness'. Sea ice is still prevalent and at its most impressive
- Fantastic photo opportunities - amazing sunsets, noctilucent clouds and spring flowers blooming in The Falklands (Malvinas)
- Weddell and Fur seals are busy mating, while in South Georgia rowdy beach master Elephant seals are fighting
- Albatross, marine fulmars and petrels fly the Drake Passage while Blue-eyed shags return to Antarctica

DECEMBER

- The start of summer - up to 22 hours of daylight and sunnier days means more time for exploring
- The density of wildlife is increasing - penguin rookeries are at full capacity, while seal and whale sightings become common
- Penguin chicks begin to hatch, first in the Falklands (Malvinas), and then from mid-December on the Peninsula
- December marks the arrival back in Antarctic waters of hungry humpback whales from tropical waters
- Access to the landing sites becomes easier in December and breakup of ice allows wider exploration

JANUARY

- It is the height of summer on the Peninsula with temperatures rising to 35 F / 2 C and the weather is generally stable
- Penguin chicks are at their fluffiest and making strong demands on their busy parents for food
- The opening up of the ice allows the season's first Crossing the Circle voyages to reach 66 degrees S
- Humpback whales are very focused on gorging on krill after their long commute from the tropics
- The ice in the Ross Sea opens up allowing a short window to access the historic huts of Shackleton & Scott

FEBRUARY

- The penguin chicks are now very active and curious, chasing both parents for food as soon as they return from fishing trips
- It's peak whale spotting season as all migrating pods have now made it down to Antarctica's rich waters
- February is the perfect month to reach the Antarctic Circle, now that the ice has receded to its maximum extent.

- The moulting stage begins for the adult penguins, while the chicks are fledging and learning to swim in the shallows
- The focus of the Humpback whales now changes, becoming more inquisitive now they've sated their appetite

MARCH

- Great whale encounters - February and March are the best months for whale watching
- The penguin chicks are very curious towards visitors and are often drawn to the color yellow in particular
- It's a popular month for photographers, with the sun now lower in the sky and wonderful sunsets/rises
- March can be a magical time as there are fewer ships around and it feels like you have Antarctica to yourself
- On South Georgia, the King penguin rookeries are at their most impressive and Macaroni's are in their greatest numbers

A dramatic landscape of snow-capped mountains under a cloudy sky with light rays breaking through. The scene is captured from a high angle, looking down into a valley. The snow is thick and textured, with some darker patches visible. The sky is filled with heavy, grey clouds, but a bright light source from the upper left creates a series of parallel rays of light that illuminate the scene. The overall mood is serene and majestic.

BEAUTY AND SEDUCTION, I BELIEVE,
IS NATURE'S TOOL FOR SURVIVAL,
BECAUSE WE WILL PROTECT WHAT WE FALL IN LOVE WITH.

— Louie Schwartzberg

We come to explore. We also come to protect.

As our co-founder John McKeon is fond of saying, no one will fight to protect what they've never even seen. Conversely, to see Antarctica is to love it, to be moved by it, to want to preserve it. So, we view every journey as an opportunity to send back into the "real world" 100-plus advocates for this incredible – and incredibly still wild – place. It's why we host world-renowned climate scientists from institutions like Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution, why we were the first Antarctic travel company to have a Citizen Science Program on board every voyage, and why we were proud to host Homeward Bound - a worldwide Woman's Leadership in Science program.

From minimizing fuel consumption per passenger, to updating our waste management systems to the highest standards possible, to the tiniest details like issuing every passenger a reusable water bottle, we are committed to protecting the last wild place on earth, and inspiring others to do the same.

Polar Latitudes Citizen Science Program

Having a Citizen Science program on every voyage is an effort we first pioneered in 2013 and it continues to give our passengers an opportunity to play a small but meaningful role in recording and better understanding the increasing impact of climate change. This is particularly helpful in the Antarctic, where we support long-term academic observation teams that would find it nearly impossible to be as ever-present on their own.

The projects offered may vary slightly by voyage and scientific need. Everyone is welcome to participate. If you are interested, please see the onboard daily bulletin and join the scheduled Citizen Science Introduction Meeting at the start of your voyage. There is no additional cost.

WE SUPPORT AND COLLABORATE WITH:

Ongoing Projects

SEABIRD SURVEYS FOR STONEY BROOK UNIVERSITY

We complete at-sea and on-shore surveys for Stony Brook University to study the distribution, population, and breeding events of birds in the Southern Ocean and along the Antarctic Peninsula.

CLOUD OBSERVATIONS FOR NASA GLOBE OBSERVER

By observing and recording cloud cover & type timed to NASA satellite fly-overs, we help scientists understand how surface and air temperature are affected by cloud cover, and how clouds respond to a changing climate.

Collecting phytoplankton samples for the Scripps Institution of Oceanography

COLLECTING SALP DATA FOR ALFRED WEGENER INSTITUTE

Salp are free-swimming invertebrates that feed on phytoplankton. We will collect baseline data of Salp distribution and collect a specimen for genetic species determination. The data we collect will help scientists of the Alfred Wegener Institute explore how this might be linked to a changing climate.

SOUTHERN OCEAN SAMPLING FOR SCRIPPS INSTITUTION OF OCEANOGRAPHY

We measure the surface water temperature and salinity during crossings between Ushuaia and the Peninsula, and between South Georgia and the Peninsula. This data contributes to a study of the long-term temperature and salinity trends of the Southern Ocean.

PHYTOPLANKTON DATA FOR SCRIPPS INSTITUTION OF OCEANOGRAPHY

By collecting phytoplankton samples in fjord systems along the Antarctic Peninsula, we help scientists obtain a seasonal picture of phytoplankton abundance, composition, and distribution, as well as how phytoplankton are influenced by (increasing) melt-water inflow from glaciers.

IDENTIFYING WHALES FOR HAPPY WHALE AND THE INTERNATIONAL WHALING COMMISSION

We photograph unique identifiable markings on a whale's fluke (tail) and dorsal fin, so Happy Whale can non-invasively track their movements over time. By focusing on whales, we bring attention to the marine ecosystem as a whole and the challenges we face as a global community.

Take your photography to the next level

A professional coach for every camera and skill level

Shooting photographs in Antarctica is a unique privilege ... and also a unique challenge. The weather and lighting conditions can change dramatically in a matter of minutes, and an incredible opportunity can present itself at any moment. When you do capture that unexpected wildlife encounter, or the spectacular Antarctic landscape just as the sun is setting in ablaze, you've preserved a moment on earth that few people will ever get to see — unless they're lucky enough to follow you on Instagram.

Our professional photography coaches are here to help you make the most of every photo opportunity, whether you're a fully equipped landscape photographer or someone armed only with a cellphone camera and an unlimited love of nature and beautiful imagery. From basic instruction, to the best way to shoot from a moving Zodiac, to the complexities of handling the very tricky relationship between snow, ice and Antarctica's ever-shifting light, our coaches have mastered every kind of situation this environment and its inhabitants can place in your lens' path. They'll show you how to make the most of every opportunity.

Presentations and briefings will help you better understand your camera, learn a few tricks of the trade, and better master the day's unpredictable weather and environment. Your coach is with you in the field — sometimes accompanying you in a Zodiac, with you on a shore landing, or sitting at the table next to you at dinner, ready and willing to answer any question, or pass along an inside tip earned through years of experience in Antarctic waters. Don't hesitate to ask!

At the end of each trip, passengers are invited to submit photos to our on-board photo contest. Finalists are selected by our photography coach, and winners chosen by the cheers, "oohs" and "aahs" of fellow passengers at a festive event in our lounge.

The photography coach is also our trip's documentary photographer, capturing the expedition's many highlights, which are shared at an event at the end of your voyage, and given to each passenger as a valued keepsake.

More about our photography coaches.

Our coaches are experienced professionals with a wide range of specialties and skills. While their backgrounds vary, their passion for the outdoors and Antarctica in particular is a common thread they share. They are deeply knowledgeable of cameras and film equipment of every kind, and take great joy in sharing their knowledge with photographers of every level of experience.

The story (and the enduring presence) of Sir Ernest Shackleton

In 1917, Sir Ernest Shackleton and a small, desperate crew embarked on what is widely recognized as the greatest survival and rescue story in Antarctic (or any!) history. Shackleton's quest to cross Antarctica aboard the expedition ship Endurance ended when the ship and its crew were frozen in place by encroaching pack ice. Eight months later, the ship was crushed and its crew forced to make a go of it on sea ice that was literally shifting under their feet. For another four months, they survived on little more than penguin and seal meat, before Shackleton and five crew members set sail in a tiny lifeboat across 720 nautical miles from Elephant Island to South Georgia, through hurricane winds and 50-foot waves – with nothing to guide them but the sun, the horizon, a few rudimentary tools, and whatever luck the gods might grant them. Miraculously, they not only made it, but Shackleton did not give up having made four attempts at rescuing the remaining shipmates who had survived an additional four months on Elephant Island. By the time the entire Endurance crew were reunited, not a single man died over the course of the two year harrowing experience.

To explore Antarctica is to feel Shackleton's presence, even to this day.

An expedition jacket designed by Antarctica, for Antarctica

When you travel to a place for 13 years, you come to learn a few things about it. And when that place is Antarctica, you learn that it's best to be wearing an expedition jacket that can withstand this unpredictable and unforgiving environment. Our new jacket, designed in collaboration with Shackleton London, is lightweight, waterproof, and wind resistant. It hugs the body, is both warm and breathable, and features an extra-high collar and extra-long bottom in the back, to keep the chill and sea mist from ever sneaking up or down your spine. We added plenty of sturdy loops to secure gloves, a water bottle, or a set of keys, ensuring that nothing goes overboard. We included a clear pocket on the sleeve that displays your passenger ID card, so you never have to fumble for it while leaving or boarding the ship. And waterproof inside pockets will keep your personal items dry and safe at all times. It's a jacket that can go toe-to-toe with Antarctica's challenging environment, keeping you warm, dry, safe, and incident free. We supply this jacket to everyone who travels with us. It's yours to keep, and will provide exceptional service for years – if not decades – to come, wherever your exploration may take you.

Another way this jacket will be working harder: By the '24-'25 Antarctic season, it will be made with 100% recycled material, as part of an ongoing commitment to lessening our environmental impact wherever we can.
